

Are You Aware of the New Biologics for the Treatment of Asthma?

These are injectable products which treat severe asthma that is not controlled with the usual medications

The brands are injectable but have different characteristics:

- + The frequency of the injection is different (from 2 weeks to 2 months).
- + Some are given as a shot in the arm; one is given in a vein.

Biologics for asthma first came to the market in 2003, so we have extensive experience with them.

For patients who are on Advair, Symbicort or Dulera and still have asthma symptoms, biologics may be a good choice for you.
